In this interactive workshop, Dr. Shore will address essential considerations for individuals with autism to help achieve a productive transition to adulthood and successfully navigate through the adult worlds of employment, relationships, sexuality, continuing education and living in the community.

Join us to learn practical solutions for educating and supporting individuals on the autism spectrum for leading fulfilling and productive lives in society. This workshop will be of special interest to professionals and service providers, individuals with autism, and family members of individuals with autism.

Dr. Shore will draw from his personal and professional experiences gained from being diagnosed with Asperger's syndrome, as well as the perspectives of others with autism.
